

REVIEW

The reviewed syllabus on the discipline "Margulantan" is aimed at studying and analyzing the activities of the prominent Kazakh scientist, founder of Kazakh archeology, ethnography and ethnopedagogy Alkey Khakanovich Margulan and his contribution to world, Kazakh science.

The syllabus presents an analysis of A. Margulan's works on the stated issues and reveals the relevance of the presented course.

The syllabus corresponds to the specialty code

The authors present the current state of the issue of studying the heritage of the great Kazakh scientist in history, archeology, ethno-folklore, ethno-pedagogy in the higher education system of the Republic of Kazakhstan.

A comparative analysis was carried out on the development and implementation of the scientific experience of A. Margulan, in his scientific research, the characteristic key features of his work, analysis of historical, archaeological, ethnocultural research were described in detail, aspects of his comprehensive and multifaceted activities in studying the rich historical and cultural heritage of Kazakhstan were revealed.

Based on a detailed analysis of the studied experience of A. Margulan, the authors proposed methodological approaches to solving problems, studying the cultural and spiritual wealth of the Republic of Kazakhstan, and also identified the most important, from the point of view of a teacher, methods for their implementation in the system of school and university education Kazakhstan. The reliability of the presented results is beyond doubt. The authors formulated the main problems, ways and methods of resolving them, and used an adequate list of references.

CONCLUSION: The syllabus is relevant, has scientific novelty, and is recommended for work in the PPU named after. A. Margulan.

Deputy director of the Institute of History,
PhD, Professor at the University of Rzeszów, Poland

Paweł Korzeniowski

